“ Chad and I were friends and together with some other friends we formed a band called Dogwood End. He was a good man, and quite the character. His enthusiasm and love of music was contagious and kindness and laughter were always part of sharing his company. He was an incredible extremely talented drummer and when we would play together it always blew me away at his ability to play any and every song. He will be missed and I curse this year and my not having been able to play music with my friend Chad just one more time. RIP Chad

“ I used to hang out with Chad at Startime in Roswell. Chad was one of the outgoing, friendliest, and caring people I have met. What a talented musician and all around great guy. We lost touch around 2009, but I always remembered Chad fondly. I know it is going to be a tough road ahead, and I will be praying for your family. I'm glad that Chad got to know the wonderful gift of having a beautiful little girl.

“ Chad was a funny guy with a good heart. When I texted him my dog died in September he texted me back saying it was taking him a long time to move his fingers on his phone because of the tears. He loved animals and when we were living together, she LOVED sitting on his lap. He was a talented musician and loved playing his drums! All around, just a great person. He will be missed by everyone.
