“ i miss you more everyday. i remember the time we were at the beach and i was too scared to go out into the water. i wanted to impress my big brother, so with your help i went out. you held me tight and protected me. you told me you had me and you wouldn't let go. we watched the waves and i felt so safe. i miss those days in florida with you. i still think about you everyday.

“ One of the first friends who made it ok to be completely myself. We're all extremely saddened by the loss of such a brilliant, loving, troubled and creative person. I'll never forget him.

“ Wesley was my childhood best friend. We spent a lot of our time together growing up. My mom would drop me off early in the mornings at his house and we would catch the bus for school together. When we'd get out of school we would play the entire day, from dirty elbows to scratched knees, to playing the old school Nintendo, I looked forward to everyday with him.

To this day, out of all the memories I've shared with Wesley I find myself remembering and replaying a particular time the most. I remember when his grandmother would take us to the Salvation Army and I can recall her telling us we could pick out a toy. Wesley picked out the cool dirt bike and I decided to pick a coloring book. When we returned back to the house Wesley immediately began playing with his toy dirt bike in the dirt, and I instantly regretted getting that coloring book, I should've got a toy car I remember telling myself so I could play in the dirt too, with Wesley.

I don't know why I think about this as much as I do, but what I do know is that my childhood would'nt have been the same without Wesley. He was my friend, my buddy, and I am so blessed to have known him and spent a part of my life as his friend, even as children.

Wesley and his family will forever stay in my heart, and I'll make sure that the next time we see each other again, I'll have a dirt bike.

I love you Wesley,

Your old friend Taylor

“ May the Lord shine His light on each of you through this most difficult time. May you find strength, peace and comfort in the loving arms of our Savior. I am so very sorry. My heart aches for you. I remember Wesley as a bright eyed, adventurous, good hearted young fella. Also, my Kristinea's FIRST best friend / friend ever. They share some wonderful childhood memories. He will most indeed be missed. Continued prayers for each. Love you, Mandy
